Student Societies

Student Communities, International Student Unions, Science Project Teams, and Sports Teams are organizations that are managed by students under the supervision of an academic advisor under the Dean of Students and have their own management, budgets, and inspection mechanisms. In addition to actively working communities, our students can apply to establish a university representation of new communities or a national / international institution on issues they think is a gap to be filled.

In addition, students who want to participate in competitions by carrying out scientific projects can establish a Science Project Team and carry out their studies.
